Full job description

Your new company

Hays have partnered with a high-end developer builder specialising in high-rise residential apartment blocks. Regarded as one of Queensland's most awarded and respected residential property developers due to their unique and integrated approach to managing every aspect of the development process. This consistent award winning approach has allowed them to establish at least 4 years' worth of work in Brisbane. They are now looking to offer long term opportunities with personal and career development to the right candidate.

Your new role

As the Site Manager, you will be working on a multi-storey project where you will manage teams of workers and contractors, and work closely with the Project Manager. You will monitor safety, promote a teamwork culture and drive the project to stay on schedule.

What you'll need to succeed

You will need demonstrated experience in Site Management roles on high-end multi-storey projects. Given the nature of this role, experience managing teams will be key to your success. Experience using Procore and HammerTech are desirable but not essential. A current QBCC Builder's Supervisors License is a must.
